

Introduction

Like never before in the history of the world, mankind is worrying about the future of the planet in general and the future of nations in particular. What will happen in Africa? For how long the US continue to lead the world? What will happen to the Middle East? For how long the earth will sustain the population growth? What could we do with global warming?

“... the vintage of history is forever repeating ~ same old vines, same old wines!”

— E.A. Bucchianeri, Faust: My Soul Be Damned for the World Vol. 2

Sciences is based on observation, the study of experiment or history. Pattern recognition is of the key propriety of intelligence. Economist create model based on historical data to predict future economics events. Meteorologist observe pattern in the weather, applied those patterns to current observation to forecast the weather. We do have enough history to predict the future of the world. The rebirth of Africa. The future of America.

In this book we looked at 6000 years of history and discovered the pattern of the life cycle of nations from the birth to the decline. We then applied this pattern to different nations. It is amazing to see how they all fit into the pattern.

It is crucial to understand what is to come to be well prepare to face it. The comprehension of the future of the world give us knowledge to prepare accurately. From an individual standpoint of for government. We all need to know where the world is going. There are thing we can change and some we can't. For the thing we cannot change we must be prepare to face it and to take advantage of it. Advanced knowledge gives a man advantage over his peers. This is also true for a nation.

For the first time, the history of the world and the history of the Spirituality was place side by side. It is amazing to see how the world is simply reflecting the spirituality throughout the history. This is true for every nations in world. The growth of a nation has always been a reflection of its spirituality.

Sub-Saharan Africa is now in the middle Ages. Like Western Europe hundreds of years ago, Sub-Saharan Africa was both colonized and evangelized before it entered this current age. As this essay intends to show, God has dealt with the people of both these regions according to the same master plan. Colonization, evangelization and the middle Ages reflect necessary elements of that plan, and the next step for Africa is the same as it was for Europe. Therefore, African Christians have every reason to expect as generous an outpouring of God's grace as that once bestowed upon the Europeans. If Africa persists in its pursuit of God, the African Renaissance is next. God is no respecter of persons.

Christianity in the United States is on the ebb; Christianity in Europe is on the slide. The best hope that gospel will reach every person of every nation by the end of the age rests with a people who believe with all their hearts. It rests with Africa, This comes with huge implication for the future of Africa. What is it significance?
